

13
APR

Attention Master students - great fieldwork opportunities

Anette Nyqvist, director of studies advanced level and MFS coordinator, welcomes all first year Master students to a meeting about the different opportunities and possibilities that the Department offers for the upcoming fieldworks.

On the agenda:

Minor Field Studies (application deadline: June 1)

The Department has announced four MFS scholarships for Master and BA students enabling them to spend eight weeks in a so-called “developing country” to do fieldwork and gather material for their final theses. You will learn how to prepare for fieldwork abroad and make the most out of your time in the field.

► Time and place: April 13, 15.00 – 16.00, B600.

Research project participation

The Department is happy to announce that we are able to offer Master students the possibility to participate in actual on-going research at the Department. Some of our researchers have projects that enables Master students to do fieldwork and write their Master thesis within the research project.

Don't miss this chance to find out how you could earn an MFS scholarship or take part in on-going research projects. We hope this meeting will leave you inspired and prepared for your final year as Master students!